Romulus High School Teacher Faces Charges of Child Sexual Abuse

William Raeck

By Kristi Stephens

Forty-three-year-old William F. Raeck, Jr., a Romulus resident who has taught in Romulus Community Schools for the past 20 years, faces charges of child abuse and child sexual abuse.

According to Lieutenant Kevin Kraus of the Romulus Police Department, Raeck was taken into custody on Friday, September 22, following an initial investigation by police, and charged with two counts each of child abuse in the first degree and child sexually abusive activity.

Although the two alleged victims (one currently 19 years old; the other, age 13) were both Raeck's students, Krause was quick to emphasize that none of the incidents reported to date took place on school property or during school activities. Rather, all supposedly occurred at Raeck's Romulus home, his home in the Irish Hills, or at his former business, Mr. Bill's Pizza of Romulus. All incidents are believed to have taken place between 1991 and 1994.

Kraus did not give specifics regarding the nature of the sexually abusive behavior purported to be involved, but did say that police were investigating the use of photographs and video tapes in connection with the incidents.

Joel Carr, Assistant Superintendent for Finance and Operations for the Romulus school district, told The Romulus News that an investigation into the charges against Raeck will be conducted by the District as well. In the meantime, in accordance with Michigan tenure laws, the Romulus High School teacher has been suspended with pay until the inquiries are concluded.

According to Carr, this is the first time that the District has been made aware of such complaints against Raeck.

Raeck, who is currently free on a $60,000 cash bond, is scheduled to appear in court for preliminary examination on Wednesday, October 25. □

Council OKs Funds For Street Repair

By Kristi Stephens

At its regular meeting held on Monday, September 25, the Romulus City Council passed a resolution to set aside more than $700,000 for the repair of several badly damaged roads in the Meadowdale subdivision.

The original motion to repair these streets – Leroy (from Oak Tree Lane to Groveland), Knurlwoode, Ridgebrook Path, Hermosa, Burning Tree Place (from Hermosa to Leroy), and Wildfox Court – was made at the September 11 Council meeting, but discussion ensued over the second reading and final adoption of the motion when Councilman Jimmie C. Raspberry asked his colleagues to consider changing the status of the directive from "resolution" to "ordinance."

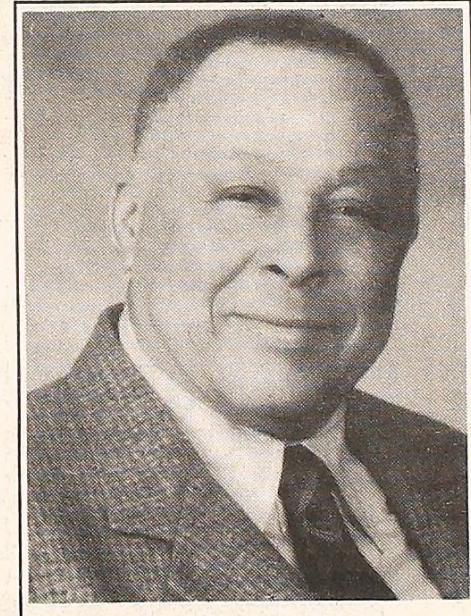

"I had received numerous calls from Meadowdale subdivision residents who were afraid that our resolution to repair their streets would never become a reality," Raspberry told The Romulus News. "One concern was that, following the November 7th election, some or all of the new Council members might not wish to spend such a large sum on road repair, and therefore try to rescind the resolution. Since a resolution can be amended or rescinded by a simple majority vote, but an ordinance cannot be overturned with less than five votes, I thought that passing the motion as an ordinance would reassure residents."

Reaction to Raspberry's suggestion was mixed. Although they understood his concern, some of his colleagues expressed doubt that any of the candidates currently seeking office would attempt to reverse a decision made in good faith by the current City Council. No one, including Raspberry, wanted this to become a "political issue."

Because new ordinances must be published in the City's official newspaper, questions were raised about the (relatively small) additional cost this would impose on the City; and because there is a 45-day waiting period before ordinances go into effect, concern was expressed that, unlikely as it might seem, such a delay could also delay the beginning of construction work next spring.

Halecreek Community Association (HCA) president Robert McLachlan, who was in attendance that evening, said that his organization would be most comfortable with the passage of an ordinance – but, after acknowledging the additional cost involved and the possibility of delay, he told Council that the HCA would be satisfied with a resolution if Council would agree to take the entire sum earmarked for the project and place it into an escrow account.

Councilman Randy Gear (who resides in the Meadowdale subdivision) that Halecreek Association members would be satisfied with a resolution, Raspberry withdrew his motion for an ordinance. "If you're satisfied, then so am I," said Raspberry.

Also of Interest at the meeting ...

- With Council's attention already turned to road improvement, Councilman Ellis Pennington and his colleagues asked the administration to report on the feasibility of the City assuming responsibility for the improvement and maintenance of Herman Street west of Ozga (now a private road).
- Councilman Pennington also asked the administration to encourage developers of the Wick Road project to set a high priority on making a shopping mall part of the project. Mayor Beverly McAnally assured him that such encouragement has been ongoing and will continue in the future.
- Public hearings concerning tax-abatement requests were scheduled for Monday, October 9, at City Hall. Asking for 12-year abatements were Adistra, which would like to begin a commercial printing and binding service in an existing industrial district, creating approximately 200 new jobs in two years, and General Motors Powertrain, whose project would involve construction (in an existing industrial development district) of a plant for the assembly of powertrains and transmissions, creating 237 new jobs in two years. Adistra is seeking an abatement on approximately $9 million in real and personal property; GM's abatement request is for almost $79 million in personal property. The GM hearing is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.; Adistra's hearing will start at 7 p.m.

City Council took action to authorize a Cable Franchise Consent Agreement Resolution, subject to final approval by attorneys, and authorize the Mayor and Clerk to sign the Transfer Consent Agreement subject to attorneys' finalization and approval. The transfer, if approved, would allow Omnicom Cable to turn its Romulus cable service over to Continental Cablevision.

Council granted Romulus High School a no-fee permit for its annual Homecoming parade, which is set for Saturday, October 14, at 5 p.m.

The elected officials sent memorial resolutions to the families of Edmund Bizek Jr., Jerry Canejo, and Juanray Nolan Street, and sent best wishes for a speedy recovery to Mary Ann Banks and Dot Icenogle. □

Reader Says Traffic Jam Causes Grave Danger

To the Editor:

On Monday, September 11, between about 6 and 7 p.m., there was a dangerous traffic jam on southbound Middlebelt Road just before Wick Road. Semitrailers, trucks, and cars were stopped bumper to bumper for over two miles and the vehicles coming off the I-94 exit ramps had nowhere to go. Had there been an accident, there would have been an easy pileup of 30 or more cars. I watched a truck nearly tip over coming off of the eastbound I-94 ramp. The driver was trying to make a left quickly before the brief space between vehicles once again closed. Had his truck tipped, it would have landed on a car.

The left-turn lane and the left southbound lane were blocked off by Wayne County trucks just at the Middlebelt railroad overpass extending up to the traffic light at Wick Road. In this small portion of the road where it was blocked off, I witnessed one Wayne County worker bent over and using a paint brush to paint the white stripe lines for the left-turn lane. He stood up, laughing, and turned toward a Wayne County truck. "Does this look straight enough?" he yelled to one of the men.

If the sign shop for the Wayne County Road Department is going to have its workers on overtime, then why not do it on a weekend when traffic is less heavy, or at a time when there is no rush-hour traffic? The phone number to call and make a formal complaint about such instances is 955-9926. If you were in that traffic jam, then let someone know that your life is important, and that you don't want to be placed in that dangerous situation again.

Kathleen Moomaw

Poll-taker Explains Sampling Method

To the Editor:

First, I want to thank you for printing my opinion in your Local Commentary column (September 15, 1995; Vol. 9, No. 4). I also want to thank you for pointing out in your Editor's note that I was remiss in my omission of the description of the Romulus residents I polled. I would like to rectify that now.

Across Wayne Road from the Romulus Senior High School is an apartment complex, and buttressed against the apartments is a subdivision of single-family homes. It was in these two locales that I went knocking door to door. Those who answered my poll were evenly divided between men and women. Fifteen percent were Americans of African descent and the rest were Caucasians of unknown lineage. I did not ask about religions, incomes, or ages. I can say that, judging from appearances, I covered a very diverse age group in a random sampling of two Romulus neighborhoods.

I believe that my sample of our community was as representative as any other poll purports to be – if not in scientific terms, then in a practical sense.

Thanking you again,
Daniel L. Sanchez

(To "Concerned Citizen": Your letter was interesting, but I cannot publish it without your signature and your telephone number. Give me a call and we can discuss this; perhaps, if you have sufficient reason, I can withhold your name.)

"Christmas Extravaganza" Will Meet All Your Holiday Needs

Romulus High School's Class of 1997 is sponsoring a special Christmas Extravaganza at the High School on Saturday, December 9.

Everything you need to start your holiday celebration will be available at the school. Groups will be selling Christmas trees, wreaths, poinsettias, roping, custom bows, and custom-decorated wreaths. Specially decorated shopping bags will be available for your use, and Santa will be there to pose for pictures with children (or adults!). Groups will also be providing a variety of foods for lunch.

This year, for the first time, individual Romulus schools will be selling specially designed holiday ornaments as collector's items and/or gifts. They, too, will be available at the show.

Interested crafters can purchase table space at a cost of $15 (single space) or $25 (double space). To reserve a table, or to get further information, please contact Marge Bergman at the High School (941-2170, ext. 149). □

High School To Sponsor Alumni Baseball Game

As part of Homecoming '95, Romulus High School is sponsoring the First Annual Alumni Baseball Game, to be held on Wednesday, October 11. The game will be held at the new baseball complex behind the High School, and will be played under the lights. This will be a new experience for most former athletes, as the lights were first used at the end of last year's baseball season.

To keep a fair balance, players from odd years will challenge players from even years on two teams. And, to protect everyone, a pitching machine will be used.

On hand for the evening game will be former Eagle coaches Lowell Johnson and Dennis Stoh, as well as present coach Don Foley.

The community is invited to come out and watch the game. Bleacher seating will be available, as will parking at the field.

Players will be charged an entry fee of $20, and will receive refreshments and a specially designed Alumni Baseball t-shirt. To register for either team, graduates are asked to call Marge Bergman (941-2170, ext. 149) or Don Foley (941-2170, ext. 207). You must be preregistered to play. Everyone is guaranteed playing time. Don't miss this chance to be a star!

Other Alumni Notes . . .

Romulus High School's "Coming Home" will be held in February next year. The annual Chili Cook-off and Euchre Tournament is scheduled for Friday, February 9. One little change from last year: Judging for the Cook-off will take place one hour before the Euchre Tournament so that judges and chili-cookers can participate in the Euchre Tournament, also. Mark your calendar now so you don't miss this night of fun!

Romulus High School teacher Mike Birmingham is teaching a new class, called "Tomorrow's Executive," and he's looking for alumni to come talk to students, work with them, and share tips and/or information about what it takes to be successful – or unsuccessful – in the business world today. If you think you would like to do this, call Marge Bergman at the High School (941-2170, ext. 149). □

Romulus' Project SERVE Students Go To Camp

By Kathy Hurst, Project SERVE Coordinator and Sandy Schwartz, Community Representative

At 8 a.m. on August 28, 35 students and several Project SERVE staff members loaded a bus and headed for Camp Tamarack in Ortonville, Michigan. The hoped-for three-day outcome was to develop strategies for implementing service-learning activities for the 1995-1996 school year.

The outcome was achieved through group initiatives and student/staff workshops. Students and staff spent one-half of each day being taken out of their "comfort zone" as they worked with their peers to climb a 40-foot wall, participate in a drop-off hike, and challenge themselves on a "high ropes" course at heights from 14-21 feet from the ground. Each obstacle posed different challenges for each individual.

From 4 to 6 p.m. each day, groups were given "free time" to swim, canoe, sleep, or just sit around. Most chose to swim or canoe.

Romulus Recreation Women's Golf League (final results)

Carroll Rafalski & Nancy Schonscheck (first; 50.5 points), Mary Oakley & Mary Laverack (second; 48.0), Shirley Roszler & Joann Hunter (third; 47.0), Janine Jung & Cathy Duford (fourth; 42.5), Mary Charette & JoAnne Whaley (fifth; 42.0), Mary Lou Kosmalski & Diane Hopson (sixth; 39.5), Marlene Boileau & Linda Larkin (seventh; 39.5), Toni Brothers & Carol Rakotz (eighth; 37.0), Velvet Boileau & Karen Linebaugh (ninth; 36.5), Carole Bales & Sharon Popek (tenth; 36.5), Carol Hein & Angie Prentis (eleventh; 35.5), Cindy Bennett & Lynne Cadden (twelfth; 35.5), Robbie Orme & Sheila Stasak (thirteenth; 34.0), Sue Cichowski & Sherra Lowry (fourteenth; 31.0), Kim Rose & Gail Coleman (sixteenth; 27.0), and Nancy Antioch & Lena Dusa (seventeenth; 18.0). □

The time that was not spent climbing walls, challenging yourself personally, or enjoying the great outdoors was reserved for workshop.

Community voice is the first of the five key components of a successful service-learning project. During the first session, students were given the opportunity to voice their concerns regarding their school and community.

Concerns ranged from "lack of community activities for youth" to "a desire to have staff more involved in extracurricular activities," stated High School senior, Scott Smith.

Emphasis was placed on the value of youth within the community and the fact that they do, indeed, make a definite difference.

After a final group meeting on Wednesday morning, students loaded the bus which embarked back to Romulus with individual and group goals to make Romulus High School - and the Romulus community - an even better place. □

Author/Historian Shares Michigan Memories

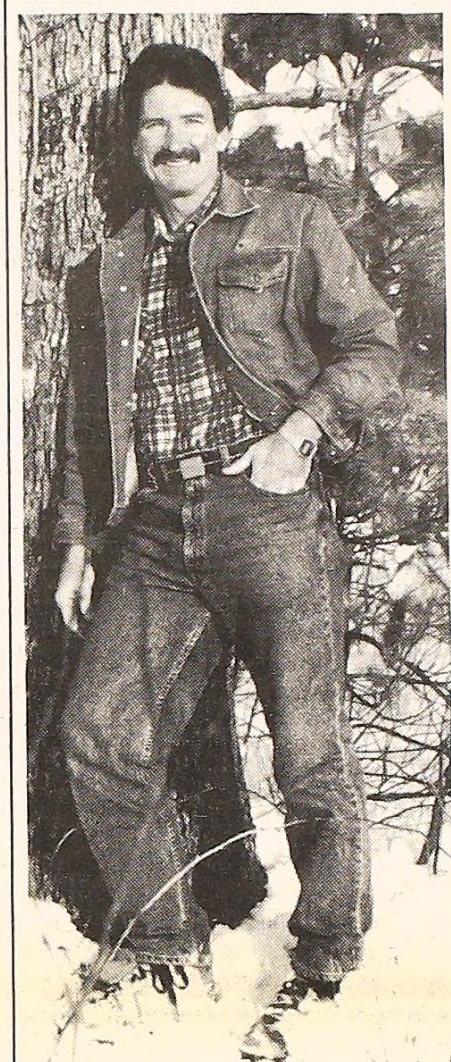

By Scott Warren Taylor

So much of the allure of a border state like Michigan resides in the history of her people, and few storytellers truly sanctioned to caricature their saga are as entertaining as Michigan writer Larry Massie. It is not so surprising that his latest accomplishment "Michigan Memories," his twelfth book, is yet another episode in his astonishing obsession with our state.

In "Michigan Memories," Massie blends his irrepressible zeal and wit with sufficient scholarship to prevent his inclination toward the dramatic and ironic from distorting the truth of our history. He tells us that once Michigan was populated by generative souls, dreamers and builders, Indians and frauds, wild with vision, sick with ambition. It seems that soon after its glacial waters receded, Michigan has hosted a fascinating cast of eccentrics, often engaging individuals who reveal and enlarge our history.

It was Michigan soil that nourished celery; it was Samuel J. Dunkley, who, with the help of gamboling chubby nude ladies, hawked "Celerytone" as an aphrodisiac "par excellence." It was fashion that called for wasp-waisted figures; it was Michigan industry that enslaved women to manufacture bone-reinforced corsets that literally squeezed the life from many a sweetheart. But women were saved! Yes! Women were saved from corsets by the fraud psychic healer, Dr. James M. Peebles, who claimed he would "seize with a pair of tongs every pair of corsets on earth and make one great pyramid pile, and . . . burn them to ashes." Women were saved. Yes, saved! By Mary Pengelly who claimed she could cure the ailments caused by the deadly corset with a dose of "Zoa Phora" — a wicked mixture, mostly alcohol. If you think Massie's sense of irony will neglect to reveal that Mary Pengelly was also a pillar of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, then you just haven't discovered Massie. His stories are many, varied, and endlessly entertaining.

Having matured without deviation from his passion, Massie, the recipient of three degrees in history, now ranks as the preeminent voice of Michigan tradition and folklore. One can trace his literary growth as if it were the rings of a native white pine, each year enveloping more of the land, more of its past, more of its people. Enter his home and you'll find tens of thousands of books on Michigan, but you'll not find the writer home, for it is summer and he is out trampling through the forest grasses to catch another glimpse of her swollen rivers, take in the moan of a petulant wind snared in her dunes, or to cruise her estate sales for yet another rare journal. At the least, he has departed on one of hundreds of annual dramatic and scholarly lectures given to school children and clubs across the State.

For those rare moments when he halts the act of discovery and takes to pen and paper, his readers are immeasurably enriched. Let this go without dispute: Massie tells Michigan like no other.

What you'll discover is that Massie's greatest talent (beyond prodigious historical research) is knowing what will provoke our imagination. Whenever possible, Massie allows the voices of the past to speak for themselves. But to amplify the illuminate, Massie enters just as the voice grows faint, rounding out the teller's own tale. If you have read Massie, this new publication will add to your joy; if you haven't, "Michigan Memories" is the perfect place to begin what will become a long appreciation of his greatest love: the sorted history of our border state.

You can find "Michigan Memories" at most bookstores. But if you have trouble obtaining a copy, you can contact the Boskage Press by calling (616) 673-7242, or write to 209 Locust St., Allegan, MI 49010. (MC, VISA, AM. EX. Discover, accepted.) □
